

Here is a useful trick to quickly resolve this without having to remove all the line breaks manually. Basically all it does is automatically replace all the unwanted line breaks with a single space, making all the text run together into a single paragraph:

- copy the text you want from the PDF
- paste into a new Word document
- click “edit” then “replace”
- make sure you’re in the “find what” field
- click “more” then “special”
- select “paragraph mark” (top of the list)
- click into the “replace with” field
- press the space bar once
- click “replace all”
- click “ok” then close the “find & replace” box.
